A Message

Our Vedas, Upanishads, Epics and the Constitution and Household Norms, Ethics, and Customary Practices that make us to mobilize, allocate and manage of resources within the criteria of efficiency, distributive justice and other justice considerations to promote quality of life. The Pragati Sudhaama promotes sustainable oriented production practices on the basis of wiseness, wellness and wealth within the purview of knowledge economy. The Pragati adopts a natural health care concept under Amurtha Ahaaram, with a conscious message of “What you eat is what you become.” It conducts homeopathy, naturopathy, ayurveda, unani health care services. In addition, it also produces sustainable healthy products and creates awareness, training, education and publications regarding a Amrutha Ahaaram which aims at ‘You become a doctor for your own body’.

The Pragati Sudhaama also promotes green housing market. In our opinion, earth used to be covered all the time, either by any ground cover, shrubs, bushes, and plants. Construction of houses with Teak, Mahogany, Rosewood, Sandalwood, Red Sandalwood, Pines and Bamboos promotes sustainable development. Aromatic plantation, further in and around houses will enhance your mind and nervous system that yields safety and security of life. We are sure that the academic efforts of the committees of the 11th International Conference on Law and Economics, 2025, will provide incentives to the participants to disseminate their evidence based interdisciplinary policy work and will achieve Viksit Bharat 2047. The Pragati Sudhaama will always extend its services to promote the interdisciplinary subject Law and Economics in India.
